NAHA AIRDROME, LARGEST OF OKINAWA'S AIRFIELDS, LOOMS AS NEXT PROBABLE OBJECTIVE FOR U. S. 10TH ARMY; YANKS PUSH FORWARD AFTER CAPTURING SHURI

Consolidate Positions and Straighten Their Lines

ALL-OUT OFFENSIVE
Expect the Enemy to Fight
With Its Usual
Fanaticism

By Gerard R. Himmelsbach
I. N. S. Pacific Cable Editor
Naha Airdrome, largest of Okinawa's five airfields, loomed today as the next probable objective for the U. S. Tenth Army.

The Yanks, having completed capture of Shuri fortress, pushed forward toward the south. They consolidated their positions, straightened their lines and mopped-up newly-captured areas to the rear.

All this was in preparation for the final all-out offensive designed to crush the 29,000 Japs estimated to remain of the original enemy garrison on Okinawa. As against this enemy force, five American divisions—numbering possibly 50,000 men—were aligned.

One of these U. S. divisions—the Sixth Marines—pressed southward across the base of a thus-far nameless peninsula on which is situated the Naha airdrome. The field, known to be the oldest on the island 325 miles from Japan, also is thought to be the best-developed, better even than Yontan and Kadena.

UP-TO-PRESS-TIME WAR BULLETINS (By International News Service)

200 CARRIER-BORNE PLANES ATTACK THE JAPANESE MAINLAND

London.—The Tokyo radio reported that approximately 200 U. S. carrier borne planes attacked the Japanese mainland today in a two-hour raid.

The enemy broadcast said that the attacks, starting around 8 a. m. (Japanese time), were concentrated on air bases in the southern reaches of the main Japanese island of Honshu.

Adding that the attackers were accompanied by flying boats, the enemy report said that rail lines and trains also had been bombed and strafed but that damage was slight.

Meanwhile, the Japanese Domei agency broadcast a claim that 566 American vessels had been sunk or damaged in Okinawa waters since March 23, shortly before the first U. S. landings.

The fantastic enemy claim, recorded by the FCC, said that of this total, 303 had been sunk, nine probably sunk, and 254 damaged.

Among the ships sunk, the Jap agency said, were 15 aircraft carriers, 14 battleships, 52 cruisers, 41 destroyers, four "battleships or cruisers," 10 cruisers or destroyers, 40 transports and other vessels of various categories.

A. Boyd Hamilton Dies; Long in Public Life

HARRISBURG, June 2.—Adam Boyd Hamilton, deputy director of the State Defense Council, died last night at 9:05 o'clock in Harrisburg Hospital, where he had been confined by illness since May 21. He was 69.

Mr. Hamilton was very active for two decades behind the scenes in Pennsylvania politics, the Legislature and State government, and earned wide recognition as a newspaperman and historian.

Born in Harrisburg on December 9th, 1875, Mr. Hamilton was educated at Harrisburg Academy and the University of Pennsylvania.

City Editor of the Harrisburg Patriot before he was 21, Mr. Hamilton served on editorial staffs and in executive capacities on two other capital city newspapers, represented the Associated Press in this district 14 years and was special correspondent of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New York, Chicago, Washington and other newspapers.

He entered public life in 1927 as secretary to Gov. John S. Fisher, but gave up the post in 1928 to become Secretary of the State Senate, which position he held for three legislative sessions. In 1941 he became secretary of Pennsylvania's State Defense Council, and he was made deputy director to Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison in 1943.

HOUSE OF CARDS

There is an easy way to make an unsafe elevator many times more dangerous.

That is to get a large and attractive sign to put up, saying, "This elevator has been inspected and is in excellent condition."

There is food for thought along these lines in connection with the current attempts out of Washington to make the Americans believe something constructive has been achieved at San Francisco.

Ingenious arguments have been advanced trying to put across the idea that world peace has been brought nearer and that a workable plan of international co-operation has been produced.

The San Francisco plan was to have been the elevator to lift the peoples of the world to a new level of harmony and inter-relationship.

But the present plan at best is rickety and uncertain, and at the worst it is a death-trap for both peace and liberty. This can easily be shown.

Even if the new league were in full operation, it would be powerless to control either of the two present new threats to world peace—the situations in Syria and Argentina.

The Syrian situation involves the French; the Argentina problem hinges on the American State Department policy.

Mrs. George Peterson was considerably shaken up and unnerved and went to her home nearby. Maurice Cavin, Tullytown, was taken to the Harrisburg Hospital where three stitches were taken in his forehead and he was placed in bed for a further examination.

A car operated by Maurice Cavin, Jr., Main street, Tullytown, and one driven by Mrs. George Peterson, North Radcliffe street, were both being driven west on Route 13 above Green Lane. The Cavin car crashed into the rear of the Peterson machine. Cavin then lost control and his car went a considerable distance over into a field near the Longbottom residence.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

On Drafting Justices

Washington, June 2. NOTHING is more natural than for a man who achieves the presidency through the death of his running mate to propose carrying out the policies and commitments of his predecessor. It is the decent as well as the politic thing to do. It creates stability during an emotional period, increases confidence, promotes calm.

MR. TRUMAN wisely followed this procedure upon taking office, but no one has a right to take this as meaning he will not develop policies of his own nor that he will continue indefinitely either Mr. Roosevelt's appointees or economic advisers—particularly in domestic affairs. It would be disappointing indeed if he did not reverse some of the governmental habits of the Roosevelt regime. Certainly there is no obligation to perpetuate Roosevelt mistakes.

MR. ROOSEVELT did not look at it that way. He not only consulted with members of the court on patronage and political matters, from which they are traditionally supposed to be aloof, but more than once he reached into the court and drafted one of its members for outside work. For example, he named Justice Roberts as head of a commission to investigate the Pearl Harbor disaster, a mission which detached him from the court for approximately four months. He did it again when he got Justice Byrnes to resign to become War Mobilization Director. And he once asked Chief Justice Stone to head an im-

TERMS FOR JAPAN

Rumors persist that Japan would not be averse to peace if, in fact, it would not welcome such a development heartily.
Probably the Japs are intrigued by the idea that the earlier they get out of a hopeless war the more they could salvage.

Surely Tokyo leaders aren't so dumb as to believe there is any chance to survive the tremendous weight of men and munitions to be sent against them. That Japan is seeking a way out at this very moment is more than a rumor.

End of the war with Japan would bring a problem to the Allies, especially to America, calling for the nation's best military and diplomatic brains. So far as has been divulged no specific peace plans have been formulated for Japan. Except for the general terms of unconditional surrender, the matter is wide open.

Is Japan to be controlled in the manner that Germany is being ruled? Will Japan's facilities for waging another war be destroyed?
Is the emperor to continue to rule, perpetuating emperor-worship and its military system?

Restoration of seized territory will be a major problem. It could be futile to proceed upon the supposition that defeat in this war will cure Japan of her tendencies toward war and aggression. If Japan is to become a decent member of world society, a long program of education will be necessary. The difficulties of language involved in this will be tremendous.

FIRST BIG CUTBACK

Reconversion prospects have been given a sharp and sudden boost by the drastic cutbacks in plane production schedules which the War Department has announced. Building fighting air power has been one of the biggest and costliest items in the entire armament production program. A 30 per cent revision downward will be reflected throughout the nation's economy.

Only rough estimates of the manpower, money and material involved are available. But it takes little figuring to show that the results will be significant.

Vast quantities of aluminum and sizeable amounts of steel will be released for the production of civilian goods. Trained manpower to the extent of 200,000 workers now on aviation plant pay-rolls will be released. Getting the manpower and materials together, so that there will be no serious period of unemployment, will be the next big job.

From a budgetary viewpoint the good news is that the cutbacks will save more than $4,000,000,000 a year. This will not reduce the need for buying bonds to finance the war. But it is a highly welcome decrease in the tremendous outlay which the United States has had to make to wage a two-front war, now reduced to one.

Japan peace overtures are reported to be reaching Chungking. Apparently it hasn't occurred to the Nipponese that the way to get out of China is to get out.

Give Personal Reasons For Purchase of Bonds

Three important and highly personal reasons why individuals should purchase war bonds in the 7th War Loan Drive are given by the committee. They are summed up in one word each—1, War;
2, Inflation; 3, Yourself.

And, continues the committee, no matter for which reason the individual purchases the bonds, the other causes are automatically aided. A purchase of a bond to help the war effort, helps guard against inflation and aid the individual through savings.

"The cost of completing the job in Japan will be tremendous because of the fabulous distances in the Pacific," it is stated. "That vast ocean must be spanned by dollars as well as men, planes and guns.
Your purchase of bonds also helps to keep prices of goods down, and rewards you with the world's safest investment. Buy bonds in the 'Mighty Seventh' and hang on to them."

A plea is also made for more solicitors for all areas of this district. Those desiring to help during the month of June are asked to contact Mrs. John Leslie Kilcoyne, chairman of Lower Bucks County drive, phone Bristol 2935.

shall be issued by the Bristol Board of Health for eating and drinking places within the borough limits.
No license will be issued until inspection of the premises, facilities and equipment has been made by the licensor and they are found adequate to the protection of the public health and comfort of patrons.

The fee for the license will be $1 and shall be paid into the Bristol borough treasury. The license must be renewed annually.

Any proprietor who maintains more than one public eating or drinking place within one city, borough, incorporated town or township, shall be required to apply for and procure a duplicate license for each additional eating or drinking place at a charge of 50 cents for each additional license.

Licenses in townships of the second class will be issued by a representative of the State Department of Health.

In Bristol, it has been the policy of the Board of Health to make regular inspections of all eating and drinking places, although licenses have not been necessary up until this time.

Bristol Man Under $250 Bail for Court

State police say that Vidota visited Frank Scapansky, who conducts the "Log Cabin," a tavern, and stated that he had eight boxes of cigarettes and that he would sell four of the boxes for $240. Police say that Scapansky gave Vidota the money but that the cigarettes were never delivered.

Vidota was arraigned before Recorder Haines and held without bail for the grand jury but later was released in $250 bail. The case is scheduled to be heard in about a month at the next session of court.

WITH THE AAF ENGINEER
COMMAND IN ITALY, June 2—Cpl. Tech. Louis C. Paci, Corson street, Bristol, Pa., veteran of 36 months of foreign service with the 815th Engineer Aviation Battalion will soon return to the U. S.

"First of all the way," has been the slogan of the 815th Engineers ever since June, 1942, when they landed in England, the first American AAF unit on British soil. The first AAF unit ashore again at North Africa and Sicily, they have always been chosen for and have fulfilled completely the toughest assignments.
At Licata, Sicily, for instance, after landing on D-Day, they constructed a sorely-needed strip in only 18 hours. Company "A" of the 815th was the heroic unit which maintained the strip at Anzio that provided the only local air cover, despite an almost continuous enemy artillery curtain aimed at knocking out the field.

With almost three years of airfield-building experiences in England, North Africa, Sicily, Corsica and Italy behind them, these veterans are returning to the U. S., having contributed approximately 70 airfields worked on to the Mediterranean air war.

LANGHORNE

The next meeting of the W. S.
C. S. will be held on Tuesday, June 12th, in the chapel of the Methodist Church. The devotions will be in charge of Mrs. Harry Williams, Jr.
The study book will be presented by Mrs. Myron W. Harris.

The Methodist Church School picnic will be held the afternoon and evening of Saturday, June 23rd. Arrangements for the picnic are being made by the teachers and the boys of Walter Speck's Sunday School class.

A father and son banquet will be held June 15th at 6:30 p. m. in Langhorne Methodist Church School rooms. Dr. John Bieri, of Philadelphia, will be present to entertain with "magic" which he has gathered from all parts of the world.

against the Japs who lost them during the 62-day-old Okinawa campaign.

Naha's airdrome has 90-foot-wide runways, and limestone-surfaced strips. Its plane revetments are well-built U-shaped affairs.

Maj. Gen. Lemuel Shepherd, di-against the Naha field, has had experience in taking such a position.

The position is much the same occupied by the enemy drone on

Bristol Men Are In Group Congratulated

The Eighth Air Force was the world's mightiest strategic bombing force. Its personnel of 185,000 was the equivalent of 12 infantry divisions, and it could send 21,000 airmen in 2,000 four-engine bombers and 1,000 fighters over Germany at one time, a combat effort possible only through the support of tens of thousands of non-flying specialists.

Since August, 1942, when combat operations began, Liberators and Flying Fortresses of the Eighth dropped more than 700,000 tons of bombs on enemy targets. Fighter pilots shot down 5,250 Nazi planes and destroyed 4,250 others on the ground. Bomber gunners shot 6,000 German interceptors out of the air.
The Eighth dropped an average of a ton of bombs every minute of the last 12 months.

Miss Florence Diamanti Is Bride of Lt. William Garvey

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 2.—An early June nuptial ceremony was solemnized in St. Charles' R. C. church, here, this morning. A large company gathered to witness the marriage of Miss Florence Anna Diamanti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lito Diamanti, of Andalusia, to William E. Garvey, Jr., of the S. Army Air Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Garvey, of Baltimore, Md. Lt. Garvey is stationed in Kansas.

The Rev. Fr. Nugent officiated at the nine o'clock ceremony. Members of the bridal party were: Miss Anna Garvey, Baltimore, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid; Mr. Hugh Diamanti, brother of the bride, as best man; Messrs. Arthur and Alfred Garvey, of Baltimore, brothers of the groom, as ushers.

For her wedding day the former Miss Diamanti selected a Princess gown of sheer silk marquisette, with long train. The illusion-embroidered neck-line was enhanced with seed pearls. Her finger-tips had clusters of orange blossoms at the side of the head. White se-buds and bouvardia made up her arm bouquet. The bridesmaid was attired in a gown of pale pink with touches of fuchsia. Bows of self-material were used as trim on the three-quarter length sleeves and at the neck-line. She wore a pale pink horeshair hat, and her hair was styled in three shades of blond with her gown.

A reception followed at the Lido Palace, Andalusia, after which Lt. Garvey and bride left for a two-week stay in the Pocono Mountains. They will reside in Kansas until the opening of school in the fall, when Mr. Garvey will return east to resume her teaching activities in a Baltimore high school, she having majored in arts.

Lt. Garvey is a graduate of Mt. Joseph high school, Baltimore, class of 1940. He studied for two years at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, before entering service.

VOLTZ GETS FIRMER GRIP ON SECOND PLACE IN LEAGUE

Prison Officers Defeated By the Score of 7 to 5

OUTHIT BY 'GAS' MEN

Bristol Nine Had Nine Runners Left on Base and Opponents Only One

The Voltz-Texaco team took a firmer grip on second place in the Trenton Industrial League by scoring three runs in the sixth to win out over the Prison Officers, 7-5 last evening on Leedom's field before a small shivering crowd.

The gasmen outhit their opponents, 10 to 5, but the localites had trouble in pushing the runs across, having a total of 9 runners left on base while the Trenton team made its hits count and left but one runner stranded.

"Johnny" Dick, the third Voltz pitcher to ascend the throne, was credited with the victory with Rink-shackleton started on the hill for the oilmen but was hit on the leg in the first inning with a batted ball and could not come out to pitch the second. He was relieved by Sullivan who hurled until the fifth when Dick took up the hill duties. Voltz was trailing, 5-4 when Dick went in to pitch.

It was the sixth frame which saw the Doughertymen come from behind to win the contest. DeRis opened the inning by working Rink-shackleton for four bad ones. Rockhill hit safely to right and both runners advanced when David sacrificed. J. Dick went out but Broderick singled to right and two runners came home. On the throw-in, Broderick went to second. Sullivan scored Broderick with a hit to center. Ludwig was passed but Ritter ended the spurt with a grounded ball to short.

"Eddie" Sullivan with three hits in four trips to the plate led the Voltz-men with the stick while Larry David did a fine job in fielding at the keystone sack. Funari and Tanzone did good work in the infield for the losing nine.

portant commission, but the Chief Justice declined.

THE POINTS made against this practice are: (1) That it destroys the tradition of aloofness of the Supreme Court, detracts from its dignity and tends to lower respect for it as a tribunal whose members are permanently removed from all considerations save the interpretation of the basic law and the promotion of justice. The same arguments apply to efforts made from time to time to persuade members of the court to become candidates for President or Vice-President. (2) That detachment of one justice easily might put the Supreme Court in position where it could not function. Though the court is composed of nine members, six, not five, is a quorum of the court. In the present court, three members were formerly Attorney Generals and one was Solicitor General. Cases constantly arise where one, often two—and more—of these feel disqualified from sitting. Thus, detachment of one member and sickness of another could reduce attendance of the court to five, which is not a quorum. (3) Even if the danger of no quorum did not exist, the detachment of one man imposes additional work upon the remaining members. Instead of the court's work being divided among nine, it has to be divided among eight or seven already fairly well burdened. (4) Detachment of one man and the certainty that in many cases one other justice will be disqualified either by former connections or illness greatly enhances the danger of decisions by four members, one less than a majority. These four justices' decisions are conceded to be unfortunate, breed discontent, criticism and confusion.

ONE notable instance occurred last year when the detachment of Justice Byrnes and the disqualification of Justice Reed reduced the court to seven. Thus, in the insurance case four justices were enabled to reverse consistent decisions of the Supreme Court, which had not been questioned in more than 100 years. As a result, CON-

BRISTOL HIGH WINS FIRST GAME FROM BUCKINGHAM NINE

Bunnies Get 1st of A Series of Three Games for Championship

FINAL SCORE IS 14 TO 0

Oriola Was On the Mound And Allowed Only Two Safe Hits

Bristol High handed the Buckingham High team a 14-0 whitewashing yesterday afternoon on Leedom's field in the first of a three-game series to determine the Lower Bucks County championship. Bristol won the lower division championship while Buckingham beat Southampton for the upper division crown.

"Toby" Oriola who was on the mound for the Bunnies allowed the visitors but two safe hits, a single by Yerkes in the third, and a double by Gana in the fifth. He fanned three and walked one and was given excellent support by his mates.

Sands and Carter, the Buckingham hurlers, were given a real pasting by the Bristol batters who slammed out fifteen hits. "Mickey" Mandio and Oriola led the Bristol batters with three out of four each. Oriola had a triple and two singles while Mandio had a two-bagger along with his pair of singles. Mandio also stole two bases.

The Bunnies were slow to start and scored but two runs in the first three innings. However, in the third, the Bunnies' bats went to work and before the frame was over, an error, two walks, and four hits including Oriola's triple had accounted for six runs.

In the sixth, Bristol went on another hitting spree and made five safe blows and a hit batsman to score five markers. In four of the seven innings, Oriola retired the visitors in one-two-three order and only in the sixth when two players were passed was the Buckingham team able to get more than one runner on base.

Under the San Francisco plan as it stands, France and the United States would have the power — and of course would use it — to veto any interference by the league in either area.

But even that isn't the whole story. Had the league been in operation, and England and the United States morally bound to it, they then would have been unable to bring their own moral pressures to bear on France to make her stop her aggressive acts in Syria.

In other words, a bad situation would have been much worse, not better—if the league had been operating under the San Francisco plan.

Efforts by Secretary Stettinius and others to gloss over the defects, to gild the chain and thereby hide the weak links, are efforts which greatly increase the dangers. There is one thing, and one thing only, which can be said truthfully in favor of the San Francisco plan as it lies: It is a device by which the larger nations of the world may be kept on speaking terms until the present wave of nationalism and aggressive spheres of influence levels off.

Any brighter view of what has been accomplished is a snare and a delusion.

As a matter of fact, Secretary Stettinius' recent radio talk was misleading not so much by reason of lack of candor as by the false emphasis on optimism.

The Secretary admitted an astonishing number of faults in the San Francisco plan—some of them to be laid directly at his own door.

In effect, he apologized for the admission of Argentina; said by implication that it was done for the sake of expediency, and conceded that in many ways the step ran contrary to the principles for which this country has always stood.

He said also, in virtually so many words, that the Polish situation is a direct violation of the Yalta agreement by one of our principal Partners of Peace—Russia.

There is grim significance, in fact, in noting that when Stettinius sought to give an instance of Russian co-operation, building up the general pro-Communist slant of the New Deal, the only citable instance he appears to have been able to find was that Stalin allowed Molotov to spend a few extra days attending the conference!

Stettinius did make an apparently sincere effort to tell Americans some of the truth about San Francisco, even though heavily veiled.

But he killed off any fruits in realistic thinking by branching off into a sort of Fourth of July oration about the Four Freedoms.

Talking about the Four Freedoms at this moment in history is political baloney of the ripest and most unsavory variety.

They don't exist. Not in Argentina, not in France, not in Russia, not in Poland, not in Syria—not in any corner of the world today with the possible exception of England, are there any such Freedoms.

No greater depths of self-deception would be possible than to believe that we have the Four Freedoms in our own land.

Not under censorship, rationing, man-power controls, bureaucratic regimentation, money-control, or the rest of the powers.

The bitter fact is that San Francisco has produced no substitute for national self-reliance, and the sooner we face it the better.

We are on our own, in a far from friendly world.

Because they make his recovery quicker, his long, dark days easier to take . . .

Because they do their work with such patient skill. And with a cheerful, friendly enthusiasm that floods a ward like a sunshine bath.

Johnny's friends are Wacs. Helping in the laboratories, in the X-ray rooms, the wards, the surgeries of Army hospitals — everywhere that wounded men are being made whole again.

Johnny calls them "terrific." And the Army, of which they are so vital a part, calls them "GOOD SOLDIERS."
